Dear Members

The council would like to wish each and every one of you a very happy and healthy new decade! We value your membership, whether of many years' loyal support, or new. Your continued interest in Anglo-Danish affairs, scholarships or cultural events matter greatly to our 'community'. It has so far sustained your society for 95 years!

We are honoured to have achieved even closer links with The Drapers' Company, another wonderful charity with many associations with education and Denmark. The Royal Banquet in December was a spectacular event, thanks in very large part to the meticulous planning and professional liaison between your Council and The Drapers' Company. Our first event of the year is the annual Dinner and Concert set in the very same splendid surroundings at Drapers' Hall.

A couple of regular events we usually arrange or support are not taking place this year.

Easter Lunch at KFUK is a bi-annual event, so we look forward to returning there in 2021. The Danish Church is undergoing major renovations which means that the church hall, the vicarage and the gardens are out of action for the time being. The church itself is still 'open for business' as normal. Repercussions of the refurbishment also means that the annual Summer Fair in May is cancelled.

Genforeningen – The Centenary of Denmark's Reunion with Southern Jutland - marks the anniversary of North Schleswig being re-united with the Kingdom of Denmark after 56 years of German rule. Ballots had been held in North and South Schleswig with large turnouts. On 10th July 1920 King Christian X rode across the old border on his white horse into the areas that voted to be re-united with Denmark. In Germany there are Danish minorities just over the border.

In her New Year televised address HM Queen Margrethe always sends her greeting to those "South of the border ". We hope to arrange an event to mark the occasion and shed some further light on the history of the Schleswig-Holstein region where Danes and Germans now co-exist in a happy union.

We urgently need someone to manage our webpage. Is that someone you?

Royal Banquet

CELEBRATING SIX DECADES OF SCHOLARSHIPS

Four young people stood out amidst the royalty, VIPs and other dignitaries who attended the Anglo-Danish Society Royal Banquet on 4th December – and that was only fitting. The event was held to celebrate the 60th anniversary of the Society's Scholarship Programme and the four young Danes, Theodor Lundberg, Kristoffer Johansen, Lasse Voss and Mina Haghbin, were a fine representation of the high calibre of post-graduate students that the Anglo-Danish Scholarship Programme attracts.

The four scholars were on hand to greet Her Majesty Queen Margrethe II of Denmark, who is the Society's Patron, and Her Royal Highness The Duchess of Gloucester, the Scholarship Programme's Protector. Later they were able to inform them of the important research work they are undertaking at Cambridge University and the Royal College of Music. Mina Haghbin also gave an emotive performance of the 1st movement of Carl Nielsen's Violin Sonata No. 1 during the dinner.

The after-dinner speaker, Sandi Toksvig offered a wry, affectionate and hilarious 'take' on the complexities of Anglo-Danish relations, which went down well with the Queen and the 240 guests present. Sandi was introduced by the Antiques Roadshow expert Lars Tharp, the 'other Dane on the telly'.

The entire proceedings took place in the City of London's glittering Hall at Drapers' Company. There links to the Anglo-Danish Society are well-established and now cemented by the formal affiliation agreed between the two parties following the Royal Banquet.

Keeping the evening in step, which was meticulously coordinated by the Society's Chairman, Wayne Harber, were the Trumpeters of the Royal Yeomanry led by Sergeant Richard Llewellyn, the Drummers of the Royal Lifeguards as well as The Queen's Regiment Association and the London Scottish Pipes & Drums.

NEW SCHOLARSHIPS

As with all such occasions, there was a (layman's) army of people who made it all possible. A special thanks should go to William Charnley who not only gifted the superb wines for the evening from his private cellar but is also generously sponsoring a new scholarship. It is to be known as the 'William Charnley Anglo-Danish Scholarship for post-graduate students wishing to study at Hughes Hall, Cambridge University'.

Another scholarship, The ACE Foundation Scholarship, is newly created and will be awarded to a UK student taking postgraduate studies specifically in either architecture, design, art or music at a Danish University. The award is restricted to a British post-graduate student undertaking a postgraduate course in one of the relevant subject areas at a Danish University.

In addition to the two new scholarships, we also raised £11000 in support of the Scholarship Programme and want to thank everyone for their generous contribution.

THANKS

Thanks also go to Alexander Malmæus, Chairman of the Anglo-Swedish Society for sponsoring one of the photographers.

Finally, a big thank you is due to the large number of people who donated to the Scholarship Appeal. Your generosity will help to ensure that the Scholarship Programme continues to assist young people like the four Scholars whose research and creativity is set to enhance our lives in the years to come.

Danish Paintings at Buckingham Palace

A new member of The Anglo-Danish Society discovered “a rare find of Danish paintings” whilst visiting Buckingham Palace recently.

At a reception in the grand South Drawing Room, she noticed two beautiful, large paintings and spotted in one of them some of the famous towers in Copenhagen. One particular tower at Børsen, the stock exchange, features a distinctive spire, shaped as the tails of four dragons twined together. Underneath the paintings, on the frames, it said in Danish, that they had been presented to Princess Alexandra by the people of Copenhagen on the occasion of her marriage to Prince Edward in 1863.

“I was quite excited to see the paintings, and asked a palace member of staff if he was able to find out more about them.”

True to his word, these interesting descriptions and stunningly beautiful pictures arrived from Buckingham Palace and here you now have an opportunity to admire them also.

Both paintings hang together at Sandringham for many years, but were cleaned and restored for display during the Summer Opening of Buckingham Palace in 1998, where they have remained.

Heinrich Hansen, Christiansborg Palace from Højbro Plads, Copenhagen, 1863

The scene of Copenhagen itself is by Heinrich Hansen (1821-90) and shows the view from Højbro Square toward the Christiansborg Palace on the right and the Stock Exchange, left of centre. The spire of the Church of Our Saviour with its external staircase rises above the city on the far left. Højbro Square was the traditional location of the fish market, and Hansen has captured details of everyday market life in the foreground. In the lower right corner, the two poles topped by squares of apples are fruit sellers' devices for advertising. Hansen completed two other versions of the same scene, although the Royal Collection's example remains the prime version. Statens Museum for Kunst, Copenhagen, has a larger version, dated 1868, and another from 1867 was sold at Sotheby's New York in 1997.

Frederik Christian Kiaerskou, Bernstorff House and Park, 1863

This is a view of Bernstorff House by Frederik Christian Kiaerskou (1805-91). The way Kiaerskou has bathed the scene in evening light is reminiscent of works by Claude Lorrain. Built in the 18th century, Bernstorff House was essentially a hunting lodge but became the summer residence of the Danish royal family. Originally set in an extensive park to the north west of Copenhagen, the house has now been subsumed by the city's suburbs. Today, the building is used as a hotel and conference centre.
